

Moving Up in the Public Service: Toeing the Line or Rowing Your Own Course

A panel discussion for New Public Servants*

Friday, November 16, 2007, 1:30 p.m. – 3:30 p.m.
(registration from 12:45 p.m.)

Hart House, University of Toronto, 7 Hart House Circle

Come to the Sixth Annual IPAC Toronto Region New Professional Development and Networking Event to explore how to be innovative, creative, take educated risks at work and still move ahead in your career. Original work, thinking for one's self, standing up to authority and arguing for better policy outcomes are all things the public service is supposed to strive for – yet this kind of behaviour often goes unrewarded. What should governments do to foster an organizational culture that truly encourages creativity? How can a new professional navigate this minefield?

The panel includes Jean-Pierre Kingsley, President and CEO of the International Foundation for Election Systems, Art Daniels, Senior Consultant with BearingPoint and Joe-Anne Priel, General Manager of Community Services, City of Hamilton.

This year's event is held in conjunction with Beyond Bureaucracy: A Festival of the Public Service – Creativity and the Public Good (www.beyondbureaucracy.ca) with a special offer for new professionals to register exclusively for this afternoon session.

TRG considers new public servants to be those with less than a total of eight years in public service.
