As public administrators, we are partnering with outside organizations more and more to do our work. We need to learn how best to work with partners as this new way of doing business becomes more pervasive.

The multi-party relationship between the three levels of government, first nations, the Vancouver Organizing Committee for the 2010 Olympic and Paralympic Winter Games and others is an exemplary model of organizations cooperating to achieve a common goal. With just three years to go until the 2010 Winter Games, now is a great time to examine the benefits and challenges of navigating through this complex partnership arrangement.

Please join IPAC Vancouver at a half-day event to explore these organizations working together to produce the biggest event in the world. There will be outstanding speakers, an update on the 2010 Winter Games planning and great networking opportunities.
